

JOINT VENTURE 4X4

Teams harness their cross functional cooperation and communication skills in joining pipes together to construct an almost full-sized 4x4 vehicle!

How it works

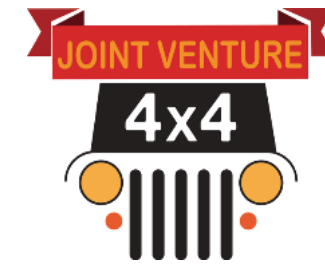

Each sub team races against the clock to build, clad and decal a 4x4. Roles are switched, quality audits and strength tests executed. Everybody has a blast in this team building activity. Individuals take ownership of their roles. The 4x4 can only be completed when everyone has done their part. It's like a pit stop of team building execution that comes together in parts but moves as a solid singular unit – both the 4x4 and the Team.

Learning outcomes

Division of roles, communication clarity, project management, time management and common goals are just some of the takeaways here. The 4x4 that portrays toughness, a go-whenever-you-want attitude and simplicity. Team work and team bonding on account of larger teams, help to make this a real winner for networking.
