

SOLE RESPONSIBILITY

Make a positive and charitable impact by building 3-dimensional mobile sculptures

How it works

Each team is presented with a variety of colourful flip flop blanks, craft materials and mobile construction paraphernalia. Their challenge is to turn these basic resources into a moving and cohesive work of art. Teams either work to specific themes or collaborate to form one giant kinetic sculpture creatively balancing shape, colour, fluidity and spatial relationships. Teams to consider the balance points of mobile construction and balance individual roles in relation to the overall goal. As the activity concludes, teams celebrate each other's creations and decorate their environment with a lasting statement of team purpose.

Learning outcomes

Sole Responsibility is a great way for teams to bond and connect with company culture while contributing to positive societal and environmental causes. The appealing nature of the raw materials instantly engages all participants. Teams must employ innovation, out of the box thinking and creativity to utilise the resources an effective way. With a lot to achieve in a short space of time, the activity provides a great tool to explore project management and team dynamics. Success requires decisive action, team cohesion and collaborative individual responsibility.
