at The Gleneagles Hotel

Experience a world of difference at Gleneagles...

Just one hour's drive from Edinburgh and Glasgow, The Gleneagles Hotel nestles in the heart of a beautiful Scottish Glen. Set in an 850-acre estate with its own railway station, it has long been regarded as one of the world's finest luxury resorts.

Gleneagles is renowned for its three championship golf courses - The PGA Centenary Course - venue for the Ryder Cup 2014 - and the stunning King's and Queen's Courses. All offer generous fairways, big greens, challenges for all handicaps and superb views of the surrounding countryside.

Throughout the hotel you will find the finest comfort - from the 232 luxury bedrooms and suites, to the calming environment of the spacious destination spa by ESPA. Four restaurants ensure there is plenty of choice for gourmands, including Scotland's only two Michelin-starred restaurant Andrew Fairlie, where a nine course tasting menu will delight the senses.

Whether sipping a whisky cocktail in the Blue Bar; unwinding in the award-winning Spa by ESPA; learning to fly a Harris Hawk from your gloved hand; or soaking up the unique atmosphere of The Sommelier's Table in The Cellars, Gleneagles offers a world of unforgettable experiences.
